

80 QUIT U. S., WORK FREE FOR SOVIETS

Each Recruit for Mines in Urals Has to Have $350
for Outfit Also.

TO TOLL FOR MANKIND

Force of 6,000 Is Aimed at—
Hundreds Turned Away
Penniless or Too Frail.

When the steamship Adriatic leaves this port next Saturday she will carry eighty men who will be the nucleus of an army of 6,000 laborers that Soviet Russia hopes to enlist to work in the coal and iron mines of the Ural Mountains without other reward than that which lies in the virtue of serving one's fellow man.

The recruiting has been going forward here for more than a month, and although only eighty men have been accepted it is stated that hundreds have applied and been turned away only because they could not supply the $250 required to transport and outfit each volunteer. Every man who goes is required to pay his own way, which will cost $150, have $100 when he starts and carry $100 worth of tools. He also has to have enough clothing or money to buy enough clothing for two years. Every man enlisted must sign a paper agreeing to accept a certain share of profits, if there are any profits, otherwise to work for the general good of mankind and the special good of Soviet Russia.

Known Only to Russian Patriots.

The office where recruits are interviewed and examined is downtown at a street number unknown to the telephone book, but known to every patriotic Russian in this city and day after day scores of men present themselves there and ask to be taken on for the long trip to the Urals. Each volunteer before being examined as to his physical fitness—and he must be absolutely fit—or his financial capacity has to fill out a questionnaire beginning as follows: "It is a great experiment to create a big machine industry that will not feed a parasite industry, but will return to the worker the full product of his industry. Men who go to Russia on this undertaking will take over an immense industrial project and develop it for the benefit of humanity, not for a horde of hungry, profit seeking concessionaires."

Pledge Given by Volunteers.

After having passed the examinations exacted the candidate for hard work in the remote Urals must sign the following pledge: "I, the undersigned, do hereby pledge myself to the Soviet Government and to the Russian people, to work for the reconstruction of industry of a rather backward country, emerging from years of war and counter-revolution."

Each member of the unit who comes to Russia undertakes to work at his or her highest capacity in order to create the highest form of productivity, so that they will prove by deeds that the workers are more capable of operating industry than the capitalists. Each member undertakes to subordinate him or herself to the discipline of the unit.

"The members of the unit pledge themselves, in case of misunderstandings or conflict, that they will accept as final the decision of the highest Soviet authority in Russia."

"The members of the unit pledge themselves to take into consideration the extreme nervousness of the hungry and exhausted Russian workers and peasants, and to try by all means to avoid friction, jealousy or misunderstandings, and to attempt by all means to establish friendly and amicable relations."

And even on such uncompromising terms eighty men are going next Saturday, and more are scheduled to follow them soon.

PLAN MURPHY SCHOLARSHIPS.

Plans are under way to establish the Arthur H. Murphy Foundation for the support of scholarships in Fordham University and other Bronx institutions in memory of the former Democratic leader of that borough.
